Callaway Golf Company Announces Planned Retirement Of Chief Financial Officer In 2015

CARLSBAD, Calif., Dec. 2, 2014 /PRNewswire/ -- Callaway Golf Company (NYSE:ELY) reported today that Bradley J. Holiday, Senior Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, has announced his plans to retire in 2015. The Company plans to conduct a search for his successor in early 2015.

Mr. Holiday will continue as Chief Financial Officer until his replacement has been identified and a smooth transition has been effected. Mr. Holiday has served as the Company's Chief Financial Officer since August 2000.

"We are very grateful for Brad's many years of dedication and service; his contributions to the Company are too numerous to count," commented Chip Brewer, President and Chief Executive Officer. "Over the last 14 years, Brad has been a constant that helped drive Callaway forward. He will be missed, but I am grateful for the time he worked with me and the current team and I appreciate him communicating his retirement plans in a manner that allows us to identify his successor in an orderly manner. All of this is 100% consistent with the high integrity, character and professionalism that he has always demonstrated."

Mr. Holiday added, "the Company will be profitable this year for the first time since 2008 – a significant milestone in the Company's turnaround – making this a natural time for this transition. Callaway is a great company and I have enjoyed my many years with Callaway and the many great people with whom I have worked."
