Section 1 - Conflict Minerals Disclosure

Item 1.01 Conflict Minerals Disclosure and Report

Determination

Callaway Golf Company and its consolidated subsidiaries as of December 31, 2021 (collectively "Callaway") conducted a good faith, reasonable country of origin inquiry with respect to columbite-tantalite (coltan), cassiterite, gold, wolframite and their derivatives, which are limited to tantalum, tin, and tungsten ("Conflict Minerals"), that may be considered necessary to the functionality or production of products that Callaway manufactured or contracted to manufacture for the 2021 reporting period (the "Covered Conflict Minerals"). Callaway's inquiry, as described below, was reasonably designed to determine whether the Covered Conflict Minerals originated in the Democratic Republic of the Congo or an adjoining country (the "Covered Countries"), or are from recycled or scrap sources. Based on the results of that inquiry, Callaway has no reason to believe that the Covered Conflict Minerals described in this Form SD originated in the Covered Countries. Therefore, Callaway is not required to provide a Conflict Minerals Report with respect to the Covered Conflict Minerals.

Description of Reasonable Country of Origin Inquiry

As stated in Callaway's "Conflict Minerals Policy", which is available under the Corporate Social Responsibility section of the callawaygolf.com website, Callaway is committed to responsible sourcing of materials for its products. In this regard, Callaway opposes having in its products, Conflict Minerals that directly or indirectly finance or benefit armed groups in the Covered Countries. It is Callaway's goal that its products be "DRC Conflict Free," meaning that its products do not contain Conflicts Minerals from any Covered Country. Callaway's Conflict Minerals Policy assigns responsibility and provides a framework for its efforts to achieve this goal.

Callaway communicates its policies and expectations with respect to the sourcing of Conflict Minerals to suppliers in a number of ways. New suppliers are informed of Callaway's policies as part of the supplier on-boarding process. Callaway also adopted a Conflict Minerals Procedure that establishes the protocol followed to survey the supply chain of Conflict Minerals in Callaway products. The Procedure involves first determining if Covered Conflict Minerals are contained in a Callaway product, and then conducting a country of origin inquiry with respect to those minerals utilizing a Conflict-Free Sourcing Initiative's ("CFSI") Conflict Minerals Reporting Template.

Building on the country of origin inquiry Callaway reported in previous years, Callaway further refined its focus by specifying the suppliers providing Conflict Minerals to downstream factories. Specified suppliers were evaluated and approved based on their use of approved smelters. The specified suppliers providing Conflict Minerals to downstream factories are audited to review relevant purchase records and physical inventories to validate that the Conflict Minerals used by these specified suppliers were responsibly sourced.

Results of Reasonable Country of Origin Inquiry

Based on Callaway's reasonable country of origin inquiry, Callaway has no reason to believe that the Covered Conflict Minerals described in this Form SD originated in the Covered Countries. In this regard, suppliers generally indicated that the Covered Conflict Minerals (tin and tungsten) in their supply chains are sourced from outside the Covered Countries, primarily from sources local to their manufacturing operations in China, and none indicated that the Covered Conflict Minerals originated in the Covered Countries.
